[Monalisa : The beautiful weaver]

Left alone in the world, a young girl name Monalisa, was hired in the household of an old woman. Monalisa was not only very beautiful, she was also a very good worker. She was best at weaving and she did it with great skill. Monalisa wanted to repay the old woman, who had been so good to her. She produced a thread that was very fine. The result, however was a cloth very soft and fine. It would enhance the finest of wardrobes. Monalisa gave the cloth to the old lady. The Old lady looked at the fabulous cloth and admired it. "Not my dear", she said to Monalisa 'I will not sell it. Only the Tsar is worthy of cloth such as this. The good lady then left for the Royal place. She stood for a long time beneath the windows. At last the Trar saw her and sent a served to bring her in. The Trar said he would buy it any price. No my lord this is not for sold this is a gift. The Tara accepted it gratefully and sent the old woman home laden with gift. The Tara therefore asked the old woman sent for. She Suggested that Monalisa Should do the work. The young maid at and saved a perfect shirt from the cloth.
